Insecticide Tables

This table includes selected information about the insecticides recommended in this guide. The products are listed alphabetically by Active Ingredient, with a selection of Trade Names.

° = indicates that small package and ready-to-use formulations are commonly available at hardware stores and garden centers

* = indicates that some formulations may be Restricted Use Pesticides (RUP) and require a certification to purchase and use

† = indicates biorational formulations that may be listed by the Organic Materials Research Institute (OMRI) and may be allowed in organic production – check with your certifier

 $\ddagger$  = indicates formulations that do not currently occur elsewhere in this guide as crop protection recommendations because they are not as well understood to be effective options

The Signal Word is an indication of the human health hazard of the product.

The Greenhouse Use and Chemigation Use columns have one of four listings:

yes = the product label explicitly allows the use some = the product label explicitly allows the use for certain crops (see the label for details), or certain Trade Names allow complete or partial use no = the product label explicitly prohibits the use silent = the product label does not mention the use — states decide if such uses are allowed

The Respirator Use column has one of the following listings:

no = a respirator is not required PPE

yes = a respirator is required for some part of the process (see label for details)

some = certain Trade Names may require respirators, but others may not

The Bee Precaution column uses the following listings:

I = Toxic to honey bees. Do not apply to plants that are flowering, or water puddles.

II = Toxic to honey bees. Do not apply to plants that are flowering, or water puddles, except at dusk

III = No bee precaution, except when required by the pesticide label or regulations

a =Toxic to honey bee brood

b = Toxic to other bee species

Small package hardware and garden center insecticides

This table includes additional pesticides that you may find readily available at hardware stores and garden centers in smaller quantities. The products are listed alphabetically by Active Ingredient, with a selection of Trade Names. RTU = Ready-To-Use without dilution. RTS = Ready-To-Spray with hose-end container.

 $\dagger$  = indicates biorational formulations that may be listed by the Organic Materials Research Institute (OMRI) and may be allowed in organic production

 $\pm$  = indicates additional formulations that do not currently occur elsewhere in this guide as crop protection recommendations because they are not as well understood to be effective options
